

The Zoo

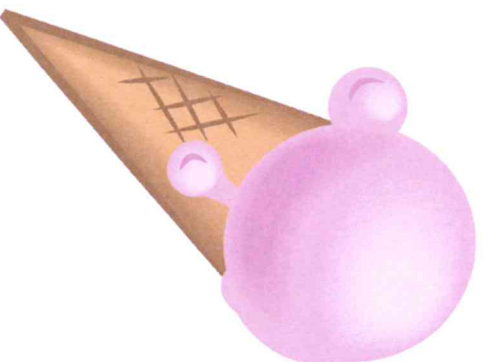

Tom and his mum were at the zoo.

"What time is it?" he said.
"I do not know" she said. "You can use your mobile to see the time. I do not have my mobile."

"It is about 4.30" Tom said. "Can we have an ice cream each?"

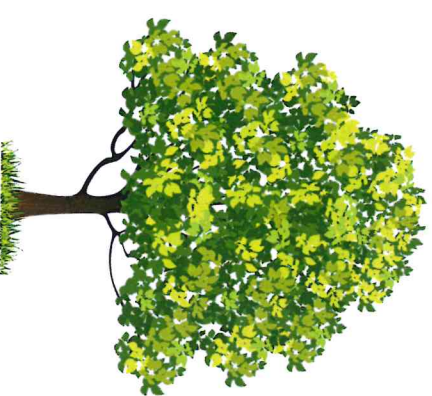

"Not now. We do not have time" said his mum.
"We will have one after" she said. "I would like to see the lions. Where are they? Do you know the way? Can you find them?"

"Is that them over there by the water?" he said.

There were just two lions. One of them was called Leo and the other was called Elsa. Each of the lions had a long tail but only one of them had a mane. "Their tails are so long. Which one is Leo?" said Tom. "Is that him by the tree?"

"No. That is Elsa. Leo is the one with the mane" said his mum.

"He has more mane than her" said Tom.

"No. She has no mane at all. Only he has a mane" said his mum.

"How long have these lions been in this cage? It is only a little cage" he said.

"They have been in this zoo for a long time" she said.

"What would you like to see now?"

"Could we see the elephants if there is time?"

"They will be over there by the snakes" he said.

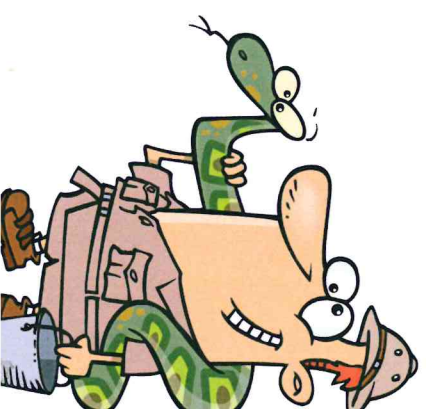

First, they made their way over to the elephants, then to the snakes. They could see the words

"The Elephants" on one of the cages, but they could not make out the words on the other cage. In the cage there was a tiger.

It could not see out of the cage as it was up in a tree, and many people could only see its long tail. Most of them could see into the cage, but some of them could not.

Some people called the zookeeper over, who said that the tiger may not be down from the tree for a very long time. When they were at home the mum said

"Which did you like more; the elephants, the snakes, the lions or the tiger?" "All of them" he said.
