

Our differences are what make us interesting

If we were all the same,
life would be boring